On Monday, 5 September 2022, selected students from Years 3 to 7 stood confidently in front of students and faculty. These young individuals who will take on challenging yet fulfilling roles and responsibilities this school year are our inspired and passionate officers and members of NationalHigh's Prefectorial Board.

Our young leaders taking their oath.

Our world is developed and shaped by leaders from different walks of life. As parents, one of our hopes and responsibilities is to pave the opportunities and experiences for our children to emerge as future leaders. From this, it is ideal to start it while they are young, which our school aims to achieve through our Prefectorial Board. By teaching and encouraging, our children will learn the correct values and skills they need to become leaders of tomorrow. We can help them by making a positive impact as they grow up. Let us prepare our children for what is in store for them in their future. Remember, leadership starts at a young age. The more prepared our children are, the more successful they will be.

As we give unconditional support and motivation to our children, we can also inspire and help shape our children to lead and be a source of confidence and encouragement for others. Here are some ways we can grow the leader in our children:

Set the Example

Leadership qualities are a great skill set to have. And it is essential to recognize that leadership begins at home but doesn't end under the same roof. Make it a point to find projects where you can emphasize doing good for others in the community. Discuss the importance of "giving back", collecting donated items, feeding the hungry and doing small acts of daily kindness.

Introduce Your Children to Leaders

If you have the chance, allow your kids to meet impactful individuals who are making an impact. Point out leaders who work in your local community, and bring attention to those in the world who are making a difference, big and small.

Teach Your Child to Be a Communicator

Knowing how to communicate with others is an ongoing, important and lifelong skill. Children are instinctively curious, and a parent or role model can encourage them to express their feelings by simply asking them questions and listening and responding to their answers. Another way to promote communication skills is to encourage your child to write thoughtful notes, share kind words, and send an email to someone supporting what they are doing in the community. These small skills teach your child to value and build strong bonds with others. Starting early sets a habit in motion, and it's never too late to create a good routine.

Help them Learn the Skill of Compromise and Collaborate

We all know not everything will go our way. So look for opportunities to teach your child how to be a part of a team, ask thoughtful questions, listen attentively, and come up with a solution. Start on a small scale, such as how they have to work together on their soccer team or solve a problem on the playground.

Studies show children must be taught to collaborate, and learning "by doing" is a significant component. "At its best, collaboration in the classroom can help students think more deeply and creatively about a subject and develop empathy for others' perspectives. At its worst, group tasks can deteriorate into awkward silences, arguments—or frustration for the one child who ends up doing everyone else's work."

Discuss the Different Meanings of Leadership

It's easy to feel defeated when you compare yourself to someone on tv or on the news. Instead, give your child examples of leadership and what they are doing that influence change. Discuss how every small act is important.

Help Your Kids Turn that Frown Upside Down

It's important to teach your kids that not every game will result in a win and how to be a gracious loser. Being a sore loser is not a habit that is valued or admired. (Adults can use the same tips!) It's your job to teach them how to accept and handle defeat.

An excellent example is when a child falls behind in a game; it's not uncommon for them to want to quit. Use the opportunity to teach them how to lose gracefully. This will encourage good sportsmanship and go a long way in building character. It may be tempting to always let your child win. But an occasional loss is an important training ground for handling defeat and anger. Managing anger and regulating emotions build mentally strong kids. Empower your child by giving them specific steps to manage their feelings.

Prefectorial Board Election and Investiture

On August 23rd, students who signed up for a leadership position were interviewed by the prefect mentors and Ms Ong. They asked questions to get to know the prefects more and whether they've got what it takes to be a great and responsible head and deputy head prefects. The interview was conducted as part of the procedure in selecting the students leaders of the Prefectorial Board. On August 30rd, the prefects went to the auditorium after dismissal and voted for the next head prefect and deputy head prefects. They watched all the candidates' short self-introduction videos and proceeded to vote on paper. They placed all the papers on a box.

On September 5th, all the selected prefects from Y3-Y7 had their investiture in the Multi-purpose Hall. The event was truly a momentous as it was graced by the secondary students. Moreover, the presence of Mr Ang, who as the school principal invested the all the prefects to carry out their responsibilities, made the event more meaningful.. For his school year, Jade Theodora Wennas was elected as the Head Prefect. For the deputy head prefects, Jessica Claire Atmadja and Clifton Mayer Gandha were elected. Congratulations to the prefect heads and to all the prefects!

NHJS' Prefectorial Board: Head & Deputy Heads AY 2022/2023

Hello everybody! I am Jade Theodora Wennas from Year 7 Passion, this year's elected head prefect for 2022-2023, and I would like to thank the prefects who voted for me for their trust and confidence in me. I will do my best to not let you down. I intend to lead the prefectorial board with purpose and achieve our vision with creativity and hard work. As with all other aspects of life, communication is key. My greatest hope is that in and outside of the organization, we will work as a team for our great community.

For this year, I plan to hold GO Green events, we will be raising awareness for younger students and inspire the older ones on a value that will benefit our future generations. Before I close, I would like to say thank you, once again, to fellow students who put their trust in me and to the many teachers who have taught me in my entire duration in National High Jakarta School. I could not have done it without your teachings and support. Thank you, and I look forward to a fruitful year ahead!

Jade Theodora Wennas (Y7P)

Head of Prefectorial Board AY 2022-2023

Hi! My name is Jessica Claire from Year 6 excellence. I was chosen as the deputy head prefect for the year 2022-2023. I am very thankful for those who supported me, and the prefects who voted for me as their deputy head prefect. I will try my best to make this experience a fun memory in your life. By being a deputy head prefect, I am looking forward to get to know all of you and learn more about cooperation. By being a leader, I hope that I will be able to become a very good role model for the students and those who are struggling. I would also like to thank the teachers for supporting and guiding me through this journey, without my teachers I believe that I won't be able to become a deputy head prefect. Thank you.

Jessica Claire Atmadja (Y6E)

Deputy Head Prefects 1 AY 2022-2023

Hi everyone, my name is Clifton Mayer Gandha from Y6G and I am thrilled to be the Deputy Head Prefect II for the academic school year 2022-2023. Thank you for everyone that has voted for me and has supported me through my journey, especially the Prefectorial Board Mentors. I will try to do my very best in everything I do and be a positive role model to others. I will initiate, work and lead under the Prefectorial Board to the best of my ability. Again, thank you everyone and I'm sure that we will learn and have fun together!
